Jeio NV Brut Valdobbiadene Prosecco Superiore DOCG, Italy

While many of you know I'm not exactly the president of the Prosecco Fan Club, I have to admit... Jeio NV Brut Valdobbiadene Prosecco Superiore DOCG has me reconsidering my life choices. It's crisp, it's elegant, and honestly, it's the kind of Prosecco that shows up late to the party looking fabulous and makes you wonder why you ever talked trash about Prosecco in the first place.

Jeio offers an exquisite tasting experience. Tropical notes of papaya and mango emerge beautifully in the glass, providing a delightful aromatic presence. Additionally, there is a subtle hint of ginger that adds an intriguing complexity to the profile. The taste is creamy and pleasant, perfectly balancing the aromatic notes with a savory flavor.

Specogna Vino Spumante Rosé NV, Italy Glera, Schioppettino, Pinot Nero

Maybe because I am in a romantic head space lately, this sparkling wine just hits a little different. Specogna Vino Spumante Rosé NV is the kind of sparkling that doesn't just pour... it seduces. Soft rose-gold in the glass, a little mysterious, a little dangerous in the best way — the kind of bubble that leans in, brushes your shoulder, and whispers that you deserve something delicious tonight. It's elegant, lingering, and just suggestive enough to make you wonder what the next sip might reveal.

This bright, fresh, pleasantly sparkling and natural rosé from the award-winning winemakers at Specogna is sure to please all your guests!

With a touch of the native Schioppettino grape from Friuli for the lovely pink hue, you will wow everyone with this unique version of a classic rosé.
